四、参考译文：全篇文章

第一篇：

The CCTV Headquarters Building is located in Chaoyang District, Beijing, with a total construction area of 55,0000 square meters, which is composed of two towers. Because of its unique shape, it has become a popular scenic spot in this city, attracting many tourists every day. The new structure of the building is the result of long-term cooperation between Chinese and foreign architects, which not only reflects the awareness of environmental protection, but also greatly saves building materials. The CCTV headquarters features a dedicated channel that runs through the building, showcasing the rich history of various studios and CCTV, where visitors can also marvel at the spectacular scenery of the Forbidden City and other notable landmarks in Beijing.

第二篇：

Pasting Spring Festival couplets is a cherished tradition among Chinese people to usher in the Lunar New Year. These couplets consist of a pair of poetic verses written on horizontal scrolls of red paper adorned with gold or black ink. Red symbolizes luck, while gold represents prosperity. Traditionally, these couplets are affixed on both sides of the gate and above the door frame. The verses of the Spring Festival couplets embody the essence of traditional Chinese poetry, with each line containing an equal number of characters and bearing interconnected themes. The horizontal inscription atop the door serves as the crowning touch, accentuating the couplets' central message. Rendered in simple yet vivid language, the couplets paint a beautiful vision of hopes and aspirations for the coming year. As households across the nation adorn their doorways with these poetic treasures, a palpable sense of anticipation fills the air, signaling the official commencement of the Spring Festival celebrations.

第三篇：

Since ancient times, the seal has stood as a potent symbol of status and authority. More than a mere practical tool, it embodies a fusion of calligraphy and sculpture, constituting an ancient art form rich in aesthetic expression. From the meticulous selection of materials to the intricate production procedures and the thoughtful design of fonts, every aspect of seal-making exudes artistic sophistication. While artists in other cultures often sign their paintings directly, Chinese artists frequently opt for seals over signatures, seamlessly integrating them into their artworks. In doing so, the seal becomes an intrinsic and indispensable element of the piece, serving as a hallmark of its uniqueness.
