自古以来，印章在中国就是身份的凭证和权力的象征。印章不仅具有实用性，而且也是一种艺术形式，是一门集书法与雕刻于一体的古老艺术，经常被看作与书画并列的独立艺术品。印章从材料的选择、制作的工艺到字体的设计，都具有极其丰富的美学表现。其他国家的艺术家通常在其绘画作品上签名，而中国艺术家则往往在其书画作品上盖上印章代替签名。这样，印章也就成为作品的组成部分，是体现作品独特性的一种方式。

Since ancient times, the seal has served as both a marker of status and a symbol of authority in China. As a form of ancient art that melds calligraphy with carving, it is not only functional but also highly artistic, often regarded as a standalone art form on par with calligraphy and painting. From the choice of materials and crafting techniques to the design of the fonts, seals offer a rich tapestry of aesthetic expression. While artists in other countries typically sign their paintings, their Chinese counterparts usually prefer to use their seals as signatures on both calligraphy and paintings. In this way, the seal not only authenticates the work but also enhances its distinctiveness, embodying a unique characteristic of the art piece.
